

1.3.1.1. Current element 1.3.1.2. Magnetic field component 1.3.1.2.1. Derivation 1.3.1.2.2. Diagram 1.3.1.3. Electric field component 1.3.1.3.1. Derivation 1.3.1.3.2. Diagram Conclusion
Introduction 1.3.2.4. Near and far field 1.3.2.4.1. Induction field 1.3.2.4.2. Radiation field 1.3.2.4.2.1. Theory 1.3.2.4.2.2. Derivation 1.3.2.5. Distance at which induction and radiation field are equal 1.3.2.6. Radiation of current element or element dipole 1.3.2.7. Power radiated by a current element and radiation resistance 1.3.2.8. Numerical Conclusion	L4				K.D.Prasad
Introduction 1.4. Quarter and half wave antenna 1.4.1. Principle 1.4.2. Description 1.4.3. Derivation 1.4.4. Result Conclusion	L5				K.D.Prasad
Introduction 1.5. Reciprocity theorem 1.5.1. Introduction 1.5.2. Definition 1.5.2.1. Assumptions 1.5.2.2. Explanation 1.5.2.2.1. Diagram 1.5.2.2.2. Equation 1.5.2.3. Proof 1.5.2.4. Limitation	L6				K.D.Prasad

1.5.2.5. Voltage and current Relations 1.5.2.6.Applications Conclusion Introduction 1.6. Pattern 1.6.1. Introduction 1.6.2. Principle pattern 1.6.3. Component description (theta phi and z) (JD) 1.6.4. Normalized field pattern 1.6.5. Normalized power pattern 1.6.6. Related HPBW diagrams 1.6.7. Example 1.6.8. Solid angle Conclusion	L7				K.D.Prasad
Introduction 1.7. Radiation intensity 1.7.1. Introduction 1.7.2. Description 1.7.3. Formula 1.8. Beam efficiency 1.8.1. Basic description 1.8.2. Formula 1.9. Gain 1.9.1. Definition 1.9.2. Various other forms of gain definition 1.9.3. Directive gain 1.9.3.1. Definition 1.9.3.2. Formula 1.9.4. Power gain 1.9.4.1. Definition 1.9.4.2. Formula 1.9.4.3. Practical importance Conclusion	L8				K.D.Prasad
Introduction 1.10. Directivity 1.10.1. Definition 1.10.2. Various methods to find directivity	L9				K.D.Prasad

1.10.3. Derivations 1.10.4. Relation between directivity and gain 1.10.5. Direction gain power gain 1.10.6. Directivity and resolution 1.10.7. Examples 1.11. Antenna efficiency 1.11.1. Definition 1.11.2. Formula 1.11.3. Derivations Conclusion Introduction 1.12. Effective aperture (JD & KD) 1.12.1. Definition 1.12.2. Equation 1.12.3. Derivation and related diagrams 1.12.4. Maximum effective temperature 1.12.5. Scattering loss aperture 1.12.6. Physical aperture 1.12.7. Relation between max. aperture gain or directivity Conclusion Introduction 1.13. Antenna temperature (kd) 1.13.1. Introduction 1.13.2. Definition and related diagram 1.13.3. Theory 1.13.4. Formula of various forms 1.13.5. Equivalent noise temperature of antenna 1.13.5.1. Definitions 1.13.5.2. Formula 1.13.6 Numerical 1.14. Effective length (jd & kd) 1.14.1. Introduction 1.14.2. Definition 1.14.3. Equation	L10 L11				K.D.Prasad K.D.Prasad
--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----------------------	--	--	--	-------------------------------------

1.14.4. Derivation 1.15. Isotropic radiator 1.15.1. Introduction 1.15.1.1 Description 1.15.1.2 Formula
Conclusion
Introduction 1.16. Polarization 1.16.1. Linear polarization 1.16.2. Circular and elliptical polarization 1.16.3. Cross polarization	L12				K.D.Prasad
Conclusion
Introduction 1.17. Antenna beamwidth 1.17.1. Definition 1.17.2. Diagram 1.17.3. Equation 1.17.4. Practical importance 1.18. Impedance 1.18.1. Introduction 1.18.2. Self impedance 1.18.2.1. Definition 1.18.2.2. Formula 1.18.3. Mutual impedance 1.18.3.1. Definition 1.18.3.2. Theory 1.18.3.3. Formula 1.18.3.4. Derivations	L13				K.D.Prasad
Conclusion
Introduction 1.19. Radiation resistance 1.19.1. Introduction 1.19.2. Theory 1.19.3. Formula 1.20. Front to back ratio of antenna 1.20.1. Definition 1.20.2. Formula	L14				K.D.Prasad
Conclusion

2	UNIT : 2:- Antenna array Introduction 2.1. Introduction 2.2. Introduction to arrays 2.2.1. Various forms of arrays 2.2.2. Related diagrams Conclusion Introduction 2.3. Array of point source 2.3.1. two element array 2.3.1.1. Introduction 2.3.1.2. Array of two points source with equal amplitude and phase 2.3.1.3. Array of two points source with equal amplitude and opp. Phase 2.3.1.4. Array of two points source with unequal amplitude and any phase 2.3.1.5. Non isotropic but similar source Conclusion Introduction 2.4. Multiplication of pattern 2.4.1. Introduction 2.4.2. Equation 2.4.3. Radiation pattern of 4-isotropic element feed in phase, spaced $\lambda/2$ apart 2.4.4. Radiation pattern of 8-isotropic element Conclusion Introduction 2.5. N-element linear array 2.5.1. Introduction 2.5.2. Equations	L15 L16 L17 L18				K.D.Prasad K.D.Prasad K.D.Prasad K.D.Prasad
----------	---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	---------------------------------------------	--	--	--	-------------------------------------------------------------------------

2.5.3. N-element linear array broadside case 2.5.4. N-element linear array end fire case 2.5.5. N-element linear array and directivity 2.5.5.1. Broadside array 2.5.5.2. Endfire array 2.6. Binomial array 2.6.1. Introduction 2.6.2. Principle working of binomial array 2.6.3. Disadvantage 2.6.4. Numerical Conclusion
Introduction 2.7. Effect of ground on antenna 2.7.1. Introduction 2.7.2. Ungrounded antenna 2.7.3. Grounded antenna 2.8. Antenna loading 2.8.1. Principle 2.8.2. Description 2.8.3. Diagrams Conclusion	L19				K.D.Prasad
Introduction 2.9. Antenna measurements 2.9.1. Introduction 2.9.2. Antenna impedance 2.9.2.1. Introduction 2.9.2.2. Impedance bridge method for low frequency 2.9.2.3. Standing wave ratio method for high frequency 2.9.2.4. Related diagram 2.9.3. Radiation pattern measurement 2.9.3.1. Introduction 2.9.3.2. Description 2.9.3.3. Fundamental procedure 2.9.3.4. Arrangements for radiation pattern	L20				K.D.Prasad

	measurement 2.9.3.5. Distance requirement 2.9.3.6. Uniform illumination required Conclusion
	Introduction 2.9.4. Measurement of gain 2.9.4.1 Definition 2.9.4.2 Measurement of gain by directivity 2.9.4.3 Comparison method 2.9.4.4 Use and calibration of gain “standard” 2.9.5. Measurement of directivity 2.9.5.1. Definition 2.9.5.2. Orange slice method 2.9.5.3. Conical cut method Conclusion	L21			K.D.Prasad
	Introduction 2.9.6. Measurement of polarization 2.9.6.1. Introduction 2.9.6.2. Description 2.9.6.3. Polarization-pattern method 2.9.6.4. Linear component method 2.9.6.5. Circular component method 2.9.7. Phase measurement 2.9.7.1. Introduction 2.9.7.2. Description 2.9.7.3. Diagrams Conclusion	L22			K.D.Prasad
	Revision Test	L23
	Special Lecture	L24
3	UNIT: 3 Antennas Introduction 3.1. V-antenna 3.1.1. Basic idea of long wire antenna	L25			K.D.Prasad,John D Kraus

3.1.2. Introduction to V-antenna 3.1.3. Diagram 3.1.4. Description 3.1.4.1. Principle 3.1.4.2. Working 3.1.5. Cascaded V-antenna 3.1.6. Uses 3.1.7. Introduction to inverted V-antenna
Conclusion
Introduction 3.2. Rhombic antenna 3.2.1. Introduction 3.2.2. Principle 3.2.3. working 3.2.4. Diagram 3.2.5. Design of rhombic 3.2.6. Merits and demerits 3.2.7. array of rhombic antenna	L26				K.D.Prasad, John D Kraus
Conclusion
Introduction 3.3. Radio direction finding: loop antenna 3.3.1. Introduction 3.3.2. Principle 3.3.3. Types 3.3.4. EMF equation 3.3.5. Direction finding using loop antenna 3.3.6. Determination of sense 3.3.7. Errors 3.3.8. Disadvantage of loop antenna 3.4. VHF, UHF, SHF antennas:Introduction	L27				K.D.Prasad, John D Kraus
Conclusion
Introduction 3.5. Folded dipole antenna 3.5.1. Introduction 3.5.2. Description 3.5.3. Principle 3.5.4. Working	L28				K.D.Prasad, John D Kraus

3.5.5. Diagram 3.5.6. Equation of input/output impedance 3.5.7. Use 3.5.8. Advantages
Conclusion
Introduction	L29
3.6. Yagi Uda antenna 3.6.1. Introduction 3.6.2. Principle 3.6.3. Working 3.6.4. Action 3.6.5. General characteristics 3.6.6. Voltage and current relation in parasitic antenna 3.6.7. Adjustment					K.D.Prasad, John D Kraus
Conclusion
Introduction	L30
3.7. Helical antennas 3.7.1. Introduction 3.7.2. Diagram 3.7.3. Principle 3.7.4. Working 3.7.4.1. Normal mode of radiation 3.7.4.2. Axial or beam mode of radiation 3.7.4.3. Uses					K.D.Prasad, John D Kraus
Conclusion
Introduction	L31
3.8. Horn antenna 3.8.1. Principle 3.8.2. Types 3.8.3. Working 3.9. Slot antenna 3.9.1. Principle 3.9.2. Working 3.9.3. Diagram 3.9.4. Impedance of slot antenna					K.D.Prasad, John D Kraus
Conclusion

Introduction 3.10. Micro strip antenna and patch antenna 3.10.1. Introduction 3.10.2. Working 3.10.3. Diagrams Conclusion	L32				K.D.Prasad, John D Kraus
Introduction 3.11. Frequency independent antenna 3.11.1. Introduction 3.11.2. Condition 3.11.3. General analysis 3.11.4. diagrams Conclusion	L33				K.D.Prasad, John D Kraus
Introduction 3.12. Log periodic antenna 3.12.1. Principle 3.12.2. Working 3.12.3. Formula 3.12.4. Regions of working 3.12.5. Characteristics Conclusion	L34				K.D.Prasad, John D Kraus
Introduction 3.13. Microwave antenna 3.13.1. Theory 3.14. Antennas with parabolic reflector 3.14.1. Introduction 3.14.2. Beam formation by parabolic reflector 3.14.3. working 3.14.4. formula 3.14.5. Primary and secondary pattern 3.14.6. Feed system Conclusion	L35				K.D.Prasad, John D Kraus
Power Point Presentation	L36

4	Introduction 3.15. Lens antenna 3.15.1. Principle 3.15.2. Working 3.15.3. Types 3.15.4. Uses 3.15.5. Demerits and merits Conclusion	L37				K.D.Prasad, John D Kraus
	UNIT : 4 RADIO WAVE PROPAGATION Introduction 4.1. Introduction 4.2. EM or Radio waves 4.3. Fundamental equation Conclusion	L38				K.D.Prasad,Raju GSN
	Introduction 4.4. Mechanism of radio wave propagation 4.4.1. Reflection 4.4.1.1. Principle 4.4.1.2. Diagram 4.4.2. Refraction 4.4.2.1 Principle Diagram 4.4.3. Interference 4.4.3.1. Principle 4.4.3.2. Diagram 4.4.4. Diffraction 4.4.4.1. Principle 4.4.4.2. Diagram Conclusion	L39				K.D.Prasad,Raju GSN
	Introduction 4.5. Theory of ground wave 4.5.1. Introduction 4.5.2. Diagram 4.5.3. description 4.5.4. formula 4.5.5. ground wave attenuation factor A Conclusion	L40				K.D.Prasad,Raju GSN

Introduction 4.6. Sky wave or ionosphere wave propagation 4.6.3. Introduction 4.6.4. Description Conclusion	L41				K.D.Prasad,Raju GSN
Introduction 4.7. Space wave propagation 4.7.1. Introduction 4.7.2. Description 4.7.3. Range of space wave propagation 4.7.4. Effective earth radius 4.7.5. Effect if earth curvature on tropospheric propagation Conclusion	L42				K.D.Prasad,Raju GSN
Introduction 4.8. Tropospheric scatter propagation 4.8.1. Introduction 4.8.2. Description 4.8.3. Diagram 4.9. Duct propagation 4.9.1. Introduction 4.9.2. Theory 4.9.3. Diagram Conclusion	L43				K.D.Prasad,Raju GSN
Introduction 4.10. Reflection factor for horizontal and vertical polarization and tropospheric scattering 4.10.1. Principle 4.10.2. Description 4.10.3. Tropospheric reflection factor Conclusion	L44				K.D.Prasad,Raju GSN

5	Open Book Test UNIT : 5 VARIOUS IONOSPHERIC LAYER Introduction 5.1. Introduction 5.2. Theory 5.3. Explanation with diagram Conclusion Introduction 5.4. Characteristics of ionosphere and its effect on wave propagation Introduction 5.4.2. D-region 5.4.3. Normal E-region 5.4.4. Sporadic E-region 5.4.5. F1 , F2 and F region or Appleton region 5.4.6. Outer region or G-region Conclusion Introduction 5.5. Sky wave propagation 5.5.1. Introduction 5.5.2. Propagation of radio waves through ionosphere 5.5.3. Mechanism of radio wave bending by the ionosphere Conclusion Introduction 5.6. Critical frequency 5.6.1. Theory 5.6.2. Equation 5.6.3. Derivation 5.7. Virtual height 5.7.1. Introduction 5.7.2. Principle 5.7.3. Derivation	L45				K.D.Prasad,John D Kraus
		L46
		L47				K.D.Prasad,John D Kraus
		L48				K.D.Prasad,John D Kraus
		L49				K.D.Prasad,John D Kraus

5.7.4. Diagrams Conclusion Revision Test Introduction 5.8. Maximum usable frequency 5.8.1. Introduction 5.8.2. Principle 5.8.3. Derivation 5.8.4. Diagram 5.9. Skip distance 5.9.1. Definition 5.9.2. Explanation 5.9.3. formula Conclusion Special Lecture Introduction 5.10. Effect of earth magnetic field, solar activity and meteorological conditions on wave propagation 5.10.1. Principle 5.10.2. Description Conclusion Revision Class Revision Class Revision Class	L50 L51 L52 L53 L54 L55 L56				K.D.Prasad,John D Kraus K.D.Prasad,John D Kraus
-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	------------------------------------------------------------------------------	--	--	--	---------------------------------------------------------------